Nottingham Festival Step back in time to Elizabethan England, and enjoy the sights, sounds, and entertainment of a local English country festival. The roads of Nottingham will be lined with merchants selling fine, handcrafted wares ideal for unique, holiday gifts; food booths will be filled with tantalizing treats; ale stands will offer ales, mixed specialty drinks, as well as sodas and water; games and activities will test your skills. Once again, the Renaissance Master's Pavilion will introduce audiences to famous historical characters from William Shakespeare to Johannes Gutenberg, Garcia Mendes Nasi to Catherine De Medici, and many more. Bring your lords and ladies of all ages to enjoy a day of fun and frivolity in merry olde England!

Tumbleweed Township Join the fine townsfolk of Tumbleweed and discover what made the west truly wild in an American old west town circa 1890! Explore the growing town to ferret out handmade crafts and merchandise; taste the various offerings from recently arrived food vendors; join cowboys and gold prospectors at the local saloon for a beer, whiskey shot, or carbonated beverage; enjoy the abundance of performers both in the streets and on stage. Don't miss the Grand Exhibition Hall and meet local characters like Laura Ingalls Wilder, Annie Oakley, Joaquin Murrieta, and more.

Whether you travel to Elizabethan England or the Old West, join in the spirit of the weekends by attending in period appropriate costumes. Be sure to peace tie you blades and leave your sidearms at home. We hope you will be able to join us for revelry and shopping as we present a slice of history to delight and educate.
